"We do not inherit this earth from our ancestors, but borrow it from our children and grandchildren." Most of us have special memories of forests, the trees we climbed as children or took shelter under the shade of a tree to avoid the hot sun. If you walk in the forest, you will definitely imagine the trees with the sound of birds accompanying your journey. However, forests are actually more than what we see, forests can produce oxygen and are home to species of flora and fauna that balance human life. By often walking among the shady trees in the forest, it not only makes you healthy because you breathe clean air with 100% oxygen. However, it can fill spiritual needs, which will make you happy and grateful for the achievements in your life. Along the way to the top, you will pass several points of interest such as Batu Kembar and Batu Ampar. Contemplate and see the forest view from a height of 129 meters above sea level, the highest peak of Peramun Hill with a trekking path slope of 35-40 degrees with a distance of 515 m.
